Why a 'Green Gathering'

We organised the 'Blue Moon' Festival on the same site last year, and reactions to it were varying, mostly positive. It was described as a 'festival for peace', but this does not mean that one experienced peace simply by being there, or simply because we planned to give the proceeds to C.N.D. (there weren't any, anyway).

This year we plan to make it a less centralized and consumer orientated event. In other words, you come here wanting to experience a community, a common aim, and you have the chance to make it happen, in music, mime, theatre, crafts, technology, juggling or whatever. We provide the back-up, such as shelter, campsite, water supply, toilets, roads and local knowhow.

The ecology party are organising similar events at Glastonbury, in East Anglia and Wales this summer, (in between trying to fight a general election) and we feel that their aims, of decentralised democracy, non-violence, co-operation and of treating the earth so that it may be fit for future generations to live on, are so close to those of many people in Cumbria that there can be a useful tie-up between us to harness more energy.

How to get there.

By train - nearest stations Penrith, Hexham, Haltwhistle, then bus to Alston.

By car - see map.

By bus - Wright Bros. from Marlborough Crescent, Newcastle twice daily, also from Penrith.

Cost

Obviously we have a lot of expenses, but they are kept to a minimum. £5.00 per adult for the weekend (save yourself a pound and get an advance ticket) children under 14 half price, under 7 free. Daily rate £1.50. Advance tickets from R Crabtree, Pry House, Nenthead, Alston, Cumbria CA9 3PY. Cut off the form below, and send it off with cheque or postal order.

Stalls

If you want to run a stall selling food, drink or crafts on the site, contact us before June 21st for details, for non-profit making stalls there is no charge.
